

A top-down view of various spices and herbs. In the top left, there are fresh green leaves, including sage. Below them are wooden spoons containing yellow powders, likely turmeric and saffron, with some dried seeds. A large wooden mortar on the right is filled with a vibrant red powder, possibly paprika. In the center, a wooden spoon holds white crystalline salt. Scattered on the dark wooden surface are various whole spices: star anise, cardamom pods, black peppercorns, and other small seeds. The overall composition is rich and textured, showcasing a variety of culinary ingredients.
